

The Non-fiction Ninjas need your help!

On each of the next 4 pages there is a picture of a minibeast. Choose one to label. Talk with an adult about the different parts of the minbeast that you can see. You might need to use a non-fiction book or the internet to find out the information.

Use your phonics to write a label for the different parts that you have named. Try to add 4 or 5 labels.

If you don't have a printer, label your own drawings, find photographs of something that interests you or email school and ask for a paper copy.

Extra challenge: Label more than one picture and staple them together to make a book with a front cover. Number the pages and make a contents page.

These are words that tell you the names of the different things that are in a picture. There are sometimes arrows pointing from the word to the picture.
