To write a fable with a moral.

Talking animals as some of your main characters 		Character's names tell you about their personality e.g: big, bad, little		Countryside or forest setting
		Describe your character in detail		Describe your setting in detail
Often a repeated phrase throughout the story He tried and he tried... She ran and she ran... But rabbit knew best!		Lesson learnt at the end of the story (moral)		Happy ending for the main characters
Presentation Is your handwriting joined, and consistent in size?		Editing Use your purple pen to edit and improve your writing. Don't forget to check your spellings with a dictionary!

You are going to write a fable with a moral. You can make one up of your own, or you can magpie ideas from ones that have already been written.

Monday: Read some examples of fables. There are lots that you can access here:

<http://www.read.gov/aesop/001.html>

Think about who your main character will be. What is their name? Draw a picture of them.

Tuesday: Create some word banks of exciting vocabulary that you will use in your writing. What do they look like? Where is your story set? Draw your setting and label it.

Wednesday: Look again at some of the examples. What is the moral of the story? (The lesson that can be learnt?) Decide what your moral will be about.

Thursday: Write your fable.

Friday: Finish writing and edit your fable.

And remember...joined handwriting ALL THE TIME!
