

The funny life of teachers

Going to school

The secret life of teachers is a very mysterious subject (that's why it's called secret) but probably the most mysterious of all is how they get to their natural habitat (school.) They could be flying in a space rocket from Mars or maybe, even, from the Moon!!! The thing is, that's just not possible, or is it? I think it isn't possible, so my conclusion is that they stay in their natural habitat (school), in a locker, eating biscuits, until the school day starts. The ordinary pupil would walk, bike, scoot, drive to their school, why don't teachers? Well, a simple explanation is: they need to hide their secret, biscuit-loving identity.
