A Guide to Year 3 English

For your last week of English, you are going to create...

Your job this week is to make a poster or a leaflet explaining what the important things are that we learn in English in Year 3. Now you might not remember all the names of things that we use. That's ok! We have attached a guide to help you. Now this guide is a bit long and a bit boring, so we know that you can make something far better.

So what special features do you include when you are writing? There's so much we fit in...adjectives, adverbs, prepositions and conjunctions. What do you learn in your reading lessons? Inference, prediction and asking questions. And what about spelling? There's also that all important handwriting. And what about proof reading and editing too? There are probably lots more things that you can think of.

You have learnt so much in Year 3!

Make sure your poster or leaflet has a title. If you make a leaflet, you may want to think about subheadings too (ooh look, another year 3 feature of writing!) Use bright colours and make your information clear to read. You could even jazz your poster up with some 'Did you know?' lift the flap post it notes (You know how Mrs Turner loves a post it note!)

As this is your final piece of work we do expect it to show all those Year 3 standards that you are writing about. So focus on your presentation.

You might want to send these in to the office when you have finished because these would be really useful to put up on a display for the new Year 3 class in September.

We can't wait to see what you make!
