

Creature discovery!

You are an explorer in the rainforest and you have just made the most exciting discovery of a new creature! You reach into your backpack for your camera....but you have left it back at camp! Luckily you have your notebook with you. You need to draw a really detailed picture of your newly discovered creature. Don't forget to say which layer of the rainforest you found it in, and remember to name your exciting discovery.

- Draw your creature. Can you label its different features?
- Name your creature.
- Colour your creature. Colour is really important – some creatures in the rainforest will want to stand out while others will want to remain hidden.
- How is your creature suited to living in its layer of the rainforest (in other words, how has it adapted)?
Make a list here: (e.g. It has long , sharp claws for climbing trees).

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and extend across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.
